As I rode on a street in Bethel, I saw to my great surprise—someone had put up a signboard—a signboard of barn door size. Where do you think it was standing? On a place it should not be, where people have to look from their windows onto this monstrosity.

When flowers are planted for beauty, they are allently carried away, but this imposing signboard—Does the law say it must stay?

And if it's for people you're calling, just think of their pleasure and ease. Take down your imposing signboard. Plant flowers, shrubs and trees.

Wake up, do something about it. Don't let it this town disgrace. There is a place for everything, and everything in its place.

COMMENTS FROM THE TOWN MANAGER'S OFFICE

It has been several years since any redecorating was done at the Community Room. The Junior Chamber of Commerce has taken this as a project to repaint the walls and ceiling. They furnished the labor and the town the material. Work was started last week, first by washing the walls and ceiling, then applying the paint. Their interest in renewing the appearance of the Community Room is much appreciated.

The spring surfacing was completed last Friday with a total of 37,684 gallons of asphalt applied to roads and streets. Last year the average daily gallonage applied was 3500. This year it increased to 6200.

It is anticipated that reconstruction on the Greenwood Road will start this week as the engineering has been completed and the state has already moved in a shovel. The State Highway Division Office in Rumford has approved Roland Annis, Jr., to take charge of the work.

The directional sign at the junction of Main and Railroad Streets is newly painted and lettered. One new sign has been added indicating the business district.

An important meeting of the Zoning Board of Appeals will be held Friday evening at 7:30 to hear and act on the request of Max Zallen to have a sign at the corner of Railroad and Main Streets. The meeting will be held at the Community Room.

Sincerely,
Harold L. Bean

THE AMERICAN WAY

Snoopers From The UN

by John T. Flynn
(EDITORIAL NOTE: John T. Flynn is a noted author, lecturer and radio commentator.)

If we don't look out, we may wake up some fine morning to find armies of snoopers from the United Nations—that conglomeration of communists, socialists, and do-gooders—wandering around our towns and cities and telling us how to run affairs.

This may sound ridiculous, but do not be too sure. It all stems from a new policy instituted by our State Department. It consists in attacking our noses into the domestic affairs of foreign nations—a complete reversal of the traditional American policy of "live and let live" so far as the internal affairs of other nations are concerned.

A recent example was Secretary Herter's public slap last month at the South African government about its racial policies. Following this, the United States voted in the United Nations for the UN Secretary-General to go snooping in South Africa. But the new policy got under way even before the South African troubles arose. The reason for it is to appease the new bloc of Asian-African countries—many of them still in very rudimentary stages of civilization—which now holds the balance of power in the UN.

But a policy like this works both ways. If the UN can stick its nose into African or French domestic affairs, it can also stick its nose into American domestic affairs. In fact, someone has already asked what would happen if some nation in the UN demands an inquiry into American racial troubles. A Washington correspondent who covers the State Department said it was practically certain that our UN delegate would not veto such a motion even if it meant seeing the UN Secretary General roaming around Mississippi.

Now no matter how Americans feel about the race issue, this is dangerous business. If a UN representative can go snooping in Mississippi he can also go snooping anywhere else in the United States—which includes your town or village. And, aside from the race question, there are other important areas of our domestic life into which the busybody bureaucrats in the UN would like to get their stick fingers.

For one thing, the Leftists in the UN hold pretty queer ideas about freedom of the press. They want to crack down on a newspaper if it prints something which is contrary to the UN's definition of "objective." How would you like to have a UN bureaucrat turn up in your town to tell your local editor how to run his newspaper?

Another thing the UN bureaucrats don't like is private property—which is only natural since so many of them are socialists and communists. They have a thing called a Human Rights Decree. It contains all sorts of weird "rights"—most of them things which Americans consider "rights" only when they work for them and ignore them when they are in the way. But nowhere in this UN document is there any men-

POWER FOR LIVING

The Rajah of a wealthy, but backward kingdom in India was once visited by a traveler from the United States. This traveler was amazed to find that the wealthy rajah was being carried from place to place, in a sedan chair, carried by servants.

"A man of your position and wealth should ride in a Cadillac," he said. So the rajah made arrangements to have a Cadillac ordered, and shipped to his kingdom. Two years later, the same traveler visited his land, and the first thing he saw, when he arrived in the capital city, was the rajah riding in majesty down the main street in his Cadillac—pushed by forty or fifty servants!

No-one had thought to tell him that the automobile had a motor, and was supposed to run on its own power.

So many people are like that. They "push themselves" all their lives, working hard, and accomplishing little, because they try to do everything in their own strength.

We are reminded time after time, in both the Old Testament and the New Testament, that there is a power in the world known as The Holy Spirit of God. Whenever men and women seek that power by power and godly living, it enters into their lives.

But so many of us are like the rajah's Cadillac. We didn't even know that such power existed.

A man living in his own strength is like an electric light bulb with no current going through it. It may cast a slight, white light in the gloom, but not much. But a human being, who has learned to let Holy Spirit come into his life, is like that same bulb with the current turned on.

tion of property rights—one of the basic rights of free Americans. And nobody has ever succeeded in getting the UN to include the right to own property in this so-called Human Rights Decree. So it is not inconceivable that the day could arrive when a UN bureaucrat might turn up in your town to see whether your business should continue to exist—or whether you should live somewhere else than in your own house.

As I said, all this may sound fantastic and ridiculous. But the truth is that once we begin interfering in the internal affairs of other nations, especially through an international body like the United Nations, it follows as surely as night follows day, that other nations might begin interfering in our domestic affairs. And the State Department has practically admitted as much in not being concerned if the possibility should arise of the UN Secretary-General roaming around Mississippi. In other words, there is no telling where this policy will end.

The thing to do is to stop it right now by getting the United States out of the United

DR. ALBERT RING, GREENWOOD NATIVE, WINS RESEARCH GRANT

A University of Vermont faculty member has been awarded a $40,106 research grant by the National Institutes of Health of the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

He is Dr. B. Albert Ring, instructor in neurology and radiologic anatomy in the U. V. M. College of Medicine. The research will last three years.

He will study blood vessels in the brain after death.

Dr. Ring was graduated from Woodstock High School in the class of 1937, a graduate of Bates College, Lewiston, and received his M. D. degree from Tufts University.

He was a resident in radiology at the University of Vermont College of Medicine and affiliated hospitals in 1955-1958, following which he served for a year as a trainee in neurology of the National Institute of Nervous Diseases and Blindness, studying in Stockholm, Sweden. He joined the U. V. M. faculty in 1959.

Albert is the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Colby Ring

Letters to the Editor

Little league is kind of getting the best of the town. We feel we have done a lot for this league and then to hear Thursday night that our son didn't make the Red Sox team. He had already played on the Red Sox for two full seasons. This was quite a let down on my son after being told he'd make a good little player for the team this year. We also heard that he was working in very nicely on third base.

He was brought up to the Red Sox after playing on the Yankee team for two years.

My wife has had the job as chairman of publicity and advertising for the last two years, and has it again this year, but we are deeply hurt. I doubt if anyone can blame us.

Things are not going right for the boys. The manager should have kept his old players and gone on from there. We are sorry for the players that were let back.

Very few games have been missed by my family. How many other parents can say that? Not very many that I know.

There are a couple of boys who are hurt more than any of the others would have been because they never played on the Red Sox. We won't be foolish and let our son go back on the Braves. We don't know about this other parent. I believe the parent of this other boy would go along with us in our feelings. I know this other boy must be hurt or he wouldn't complain.

SHORT TAKES

The Elmsford, N. Y., Eagle-Herald: The trouble with us downtrodden treadmills today is that we have too much taxation — with representation. We've already run up direct taxes so high that we can't be trusted to get up the money ourselves. They take it from our paychecks because they know that we can't contrive to save it to plunk down on the tax collector's desk, and they couldn't build enough jails to hold all of us who would be tax delinquents.

"Not working obviously has become big business in the United States. And it seems destined to get bigger still."

Buffalo, Wyoming, Bulletin: "If you are an average American motorist, driving your car 10,000 miles a year, your personal transportation bill came to $1,078 in 1958, an American Automobile Association survey finds. Biggest item—$455—is depreciation."

Lisbon Falls, Me. Weekly News: The time has come for another comment on the underfed models of our era. We cannot look on quietly as the pretty young things in the large cities are induced to half-starve themselves to become models. Our venerable advice to the members of the fairer sex, especially the younger ones, is for them to eat normally, live normally and enjoy life as healthy individuals, steering clear of the example set by today's fashion models.

The Mable, Minn., Record: Industry wants to replace much of their old equipment with new and more efficient machines. But antiquated and unrealistic depreciation methods imposed by our tax laws make this very, very difficult and even impossible. 95 billion dollars of a total plant investment of some 350 billion in the U. S. is now considered obsolete. We say it's time for a change of depreciation methods under present tax laws.

TODAY'S Meditation

THE WORLD'S MOST WIDELY USED DEVOTIONAL GUIDE

Read Philippians 1:12-20

I know that this shall turn to my salvation through your prayer, and the supply of the Spirit of Jesus Christ. (Philippians 1:19.)

The famous preacher Charles H. Spurgeon was fond of this story. Some children were being taught the Apostles' Creed. Each child repeated a clause. Thus they proceeded through the Creed.

One day the minister came into the classroom and asked the children to repeat the Creed to him. All went well for a time. Then there was an awkward pause. "Well," said the minister, "What is wrong?" A little boy replied, "Please sir, the boy that believes in the Holy Spirit isn't here today."

Someone has said that the Holy Spirit is the lost chord of the church. How little is known of His working in the heart! Yet we need Him so much. He is the One who brings conviction of sin, accomplishes His saving work in the heart, reveals the things of Christ to us, and leads us into all truth. Happy indeed is the man blessed by the Holy Spirit.

PRAYER: Almighty God, grant unto us to know and experience the power of the Holy Spirit in our lives. Convince us of sin, purify our hearts, grant us wisdom in living as Christ would have us live. In His holy name we pray. Amen.

Extension Service
REACHES NEARLY 34,000 MAINE FAMILIES

During 1959 the Cooperative Extension Service carried its educational programs to nearly 34,000 farm and urban families in Maine.

This was one of many facts reported in the latest annual report of the Extension Service, says George E. Lord, Extension director.

Lord said that the 20-page, printed annual report is well illustrated and filled with facts and figures on Extension work in Maine. It's Extension Bulletin 477, "Extension Serves in These Changing Times."

Copies of Bulletin 477 may be obtained from county Extension offices. They may also be secured by writing the Cooperative Extension Service, Winthrop Hall, University of Maine, Orono.

To be exact, Extension during 1959 helped 33,849 Maine families solve farm, home, and community problems. Of these families, 12,408 were farm families and the remaining 21,441 were rural non-farm and city families.

County and state Extension workers held 13,767 educational meetings attended by 263,888 persons during the year. Extension workers made 20,629 farm and home visits and received 14,420 office calls. The agents distributed some 6,119 educational news stories, as well as preparing many radio broadcasts and telecasts.

In addition, the Extension Service distributed some 302,551 educational bulletins, circulars, and pamphlets.

Extension work was conducted in 430 organized communities, with the help of 5,556 volunteer leaders in agriculture, homemaking, and 4-H clubs. Some 5,799 boys and girls were enrolled in Extension's 4-H club program in 427 clubs. These young people completed 9,414 projects in agriculture, homemaking, and related fields.

All in all, says Director Lord, 1959 was another year of outstanding service and progress in Extension work with Maine people.

COUNTRY FLAVOR

JUNE

Each month of the turning year has beauty and appeal. Each of the twelve segments into which man divides the annual cycle contributes its part to the completed whole. Life is a series of profound rhythms and now while fresh green and bright flowers spread beauty on the countryside, a man feels the pulsing urgency as he walks his acres.

Grasses are ripening on the hillside and the green waves ripple as they run before gentle breezes. Buttercups and daisies paint a picture along the creeks; ferns grow lush beside shadowed, quiet country roads; hardwood trees are fully clothed and the many shades of green make a mosaic of soft hues in golden sunlight.

Flowers are moist and misty and as pale colors climb into the sky the birds' chorus sings the melody of June. The sun climbs the high arc and moves across a clear blue sky.

Perhaps June is the favorite month of most persons. Time pushes toward the solstice as green line of crops lift above rich brown soil. Tractors plod back and forth, cultivating a crop that man planted in fall faith. For it was written long ago that as a man sows, so shall he reap.

June is a month of beauty and warmth, of gentle rain and sunlit days. Seed was placed in the darkness of Earth's breast and now man nurtures his crop toward the time of the full kernel in the ear. He who has faith knows that the Master Plan governs all life. To him who nourishes his faith, the harvest is certain.

MAGALLOWAY

-Mrs. Bessie Harvey, Corres.-
Magalloway made a very poor showing at the polls Monday with only twelve people voting.

A special Plantation meeting was held at the Town Hall after the primary election to vote to take money from the surplus account for more spraying by truck for insect control. It was voted to take $100 from that account.

Mr. and Mrs. George Strang-er of Berlin and sons, Joey and Scott, spent the week end with Fred Bennett. The Strangers have a new Ford station wagon.

Other guests at Fred Bennett's Sunday, were Mr. and Mrs. Alton Fogg of Colebrook and Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Ripley of Portsmouth. Clyde is recovering very slowly from his illness last winter.

Lt. and Mrs. Wendell Bragg returned to Fort Devens, Sunday, after staying with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Bragg, for a week. He expects to go overseas soon.

Donald Murray is entering the St. Louis Hospital at Berlin, Tuesday, for X-rays and medical treatment.

Carroll and Marvin Travers of Litchfield and Hebron visited their grandfather, Archie Bennett, over the week end. They worked repairing his house while there and also went fishing.

Harold McGinley and his son, Bruce, of Whitefield, stayed at their summer place here last week. Bruce is on leave from the Army.

Oddian Turner who has been ill recently is better.

Mrs. Marie Littlehale who was called to Bryant Pond by the death of her brother-in-law, Joseph H. Littlehale, returned home Sunday.

Miss Elizabeth Ann Linnell and Bernard Fred Hibbard were married in the Magalloway Church on June 10th by Mrs. Beatrice Littlehale. The bride is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Claude C. Linnell, Jr.

A serious mistake was made two weeks ago in the Magalloway news in the item that Miss Betty Linnell was engaged to John Carr of Colebrook instead of Bernard Hibbard. I am sorry but that is the way it was reported to me.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Cameron and daughter, Deborah, have moved in their trailer from Ranclev to the Cameron farm in Magalloway.

Fred Bennett who has been quite ill lately had Dr. Brooks come in from Colebrook last week.

WHAT HAVE YOU TO LIVE FOR?

This question was asked of several thousand people by a noted psychologist, and the replies to his inquiry shocked him intensely.

About 94% of those questioned admitted that they were merely enduring the present while waiting for happiness to "happen" at some indeterminate time in the future. They were waiting for children to grow up; waiting until they could afford a new car or a new home; waiting until they could take a hoped for vacation; waiting for somebody to do something for them; or waiting for a change in the routine of their lives. They were waiting for tomorrow without realizing that all a person ever has is today, because yesterday is gone and tomorrow is not here.

"The quickest way to get into debt is to try to keep up to someone already there." — Square and Crescent, publication of Morgan Construction Company, Worcester.
